NEW MITE SPRAY

A new mite spray, Aramite, was suggested for those who are interested in giving the promising new material a trial. The first application should be made of 1 1/2 pounds of Aramite to 100 gallons of spray and the second application, this time with one pound of Aramite per 100 gallons, should be placed on the orchard 14 days after the first.

To combat leaf roller a special application of 1 1/2 pounds of Rothane (DDD), 50 per cent wettable powder was suggested. The wettable powder is preferred over the emulsion in combination with other materials, the specialists added, and said that the wettable powder could be added to any of the cover sprays if wished. They added that a special leafroller spray may be needed in July or August.

FRUIT GROWERS ARE IN SESSION AT BIGLERVILLE

Characteristics of new spray materials and new spray schedules were outlined this morning at the annual all-day meeting of the Fruit-Growers Association of Adams county held at the Biglerville auditorium.

At noon the 400 growers present for the session moved to the C. H. Musselman company cafeteria where they were guests of the processing company at dinner. The afternoon session at which the Rev. Nevil R. Smith, pastor of Emmanuel Reformed church, Hanover, will be the speaker, will also be held at the Musselman cafeteria.

State College Extension specialists outlined spray schedules which they claimed are designed to produce good fruit at lowered costs, but warned that the lowered costs are based on the increased value of the fruit produced rather than a diminution in the amount of spray material used or the use of cheaper materials. At the same time however, they held out hope that some of the new materials may be reduced in price this year.

Outline Four Schedules

Four different spray schedules were outlined for apple orchards, with the specialists noting that the spray schedules should vary somewhat from orchard to orchard depending upon the disease and insect situation obtaining in each orchard. For that reason they spoke at length on the compatibility of the new and old materials to give the growers guidance in what materials can be used together and in what quantities.

For many orchards they recommended a special mite and leaf roller spray, noting that in 1949 most orchards had two serious infestations of mites. During July, European red mites built up to exceptionally high populations, frequently as high as 175 mites per leaf, they said. In August the red mites dwindled in numbers and Two-Spotted mites and Schoenel mites replaced them.

To battle the mites they suggested Parathion, 15 per cent powder, one-half pound per 100 gallons, or one-quarter pint of TEPP, with two applications to be made five days apart. As an alternate they suggested using three-fourths of a pound Parathion, 15 per cent powder, with the two applications seven to nine days apart.

With apologies to Abraham Lincoln we present the following reprint:

"One score and sixteen years ago our fathers brought forth upon this nation a new tax, conceived in desperation and dedicated to the proposition that all men are fair game.

"We are now engaged in a great mass of calculations, testing whether this taxpayer or any taxpayer, so confused and so impoverished, can long endure. We have met on Form 1040. We have come to dedicate a large portion of our income to a final resting place with those men who here spend their lives, that they may spend our money.

"It is altogether anguish and torture that we should do this. But, in the legal sense we cannot evade, we cannot underestimate this tax. The collectors, clever and sly, who computed here, have gone far beyond our poor power to add and subtract.

"Our creditors will little note nor long remember what we pay here, but the Bureau of Internal Revenue can never forget what we report here. It is rather for us to be dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these vanished dollars we take increased devotion to the free remaining, and that we here highly resolve that next year will not find us in the higher income tax bracket."

LIBRARY NEEDS MORE BOOKS FOR YOUNG READERS

The heavy demands upon the Adams County Free Library for children's books brought an appeal from the board of directors Friday evening for donations of books for young people.

The library has hundreds of children's books but the juvenile readers that make from 7,000 to 10,000 loans a month are rapidly reading through the library's shelves for young folks. A slight tapering off last month in the volume of juvenile loans was taken by Mrs. William S. Snyder, librarian, to indicate a need for new books to keep up the interest of the young readers.

Mrs. Snyder told the board she is ordering a limited supply of new books for grade school age readers but that order will be in modest proportions to stay within budget limits.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS
MYSTERY, MIRACLE AND BEAUTY

Never shall I cease to wonder. For anyone to cease to do this could mean nothing except stagnation of mind and death to the human spirit. I am unable to grasp Dr. Einstein's discoveries and revelations in the world of science, but I can understand what he has written as a poet, and so I quote from him, as follows: "The most beautiful thing we can experience is the mysterious. It is the source of all true art and science. He to whom this emotion is a stranger, who can no longer pause to wonder and stand rapt in awe, is as good as dead; his eyes are closed."

How can anyone walk upon the green grass, or view the commonest of flowers, or look upon the matchless coloring of a butterfly or a Bird of Paradise, without a feeling of wonder at so great mystery, miracle and beauty? Fabre, one of the most devout and famous of all naturalists, once stated that human knowledge would be erased from the world "before we possess the last word that this infinitesimal creature (the gnat) has to say to us." And Darwin, discussing the butterfly's wings, questioned: "Is there not a mind for which all such beauty exists even before insects or men have attained the level at which they can appreciate it?"

In the February number of the National Geographic magazine is the most interesting article on the Birds of Paradise in New Guinea, with illustrations that fill you with amazement as you note them. So mysterious, so miraculous, so perfect a blending of colors and ethereal beauty, that you marvel at so perfect a creation.

I have looked with wonder upon a spider's web at sunrise, so that each silken cord reflected the light, like a thread of gold. Symmetry and artistic design to the entire web. How can any of us fail to reverence the great Creator of all things when looking upon the simplest, or commonest of His handiwork? But great as are all mysteries in this wonderful world of ours, there is none so mysterious and baffling as the human mind about which we know next to nothing!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "The Journey of Words"

HOME INSURANCE
Laughter keeps the home aglow.
Love the spot insures.
Where these treasures are to know
Long the home endures.

Stout the walls where children play.
This we live to learn:
When they've grown and gone away,
Often they'll return.

Shelter from the storms alone
Little holds to win.
All in vain are brick and stone,
Save there's love within.

Safe the spot where loved ones meet,
Glad at home to be.
Laughter, song and dancing feet
Home will guarantee.

The things some drivers don't know about safety would fill a hospital.

What's In A Sign?

Sometimes there is good reason to believe that motordom suffers from an over-supply of warning signs. Because highway departments are so eager to notify drivers of danger the thing has been overdone to a point where motorists are inclined to take too many warnings with a grain of salt. A slight rise in a road is presented as a "hill" and a "dangerous curve" turns out to be merely a bend in the road. Naturally, the seasoned driver begins to take the signs lightly. Soon he is ignoring them altogether.

The whole system needs overhauling. Every driver ought to be assured that when a sign says dangerous it means just what it says. False alarms in signs probably rates surprisingly high as a direct cause of many a preventable highway accident.

And speaking of signs, a real job could be done by way of improving route number posting and general directional sign positioning. Many an accident is due to the confused traveler trying to get his bearings.

Why It Wandered

A friend of mine, faced with the problem of what was causing his car to wander, ran up against an oddity which I think is well worth passing along. All the usual things had been tried by way of keeping the car to a straight course, but somehow no one noticed that the sway bar at the front of the car was bent a little. What happened was that the bend was sufficient to interfere with the free return of the front shock absorbers after the car had struck a hole or hump in the road. This encouraged the front end to nose this way and that, wandering constantly whenever the road surface was anything but smooth.

Rough On Tires

If you have recently checked over the tires with the idea of rotating them you probably have been surprised to find how much tread is worn off the rear ones. The reason is the increased power of the modern engine which enables us to tear up hills as if we were running on the level. This higher uphill speed results in more rear wheel slippage. There is also a tendency to go around curves faster than normal because the car builds up higher speed more easily. It is rough on tires to say the least. The rear ones bear the brunt of all this because they take all the driving force, and in some cases a higher percentage of the braking force.

Mechanic Joe Speaking:

"This is the time of year when brakes take a lot of unnecessary punishment. First there is the wear from fast idling engines. No harm in letting the engine idle fast enough to warm up properly and prevent stalling, but in slowing down during the warm-up period, the clutch should be disengaged sooner.

"And here's another special kind of winter hardship on the brakes. Cars are confined more to city driving and drivers are tempted to make too many short, quick stops. Due to dampness the brakes are likely to be grabby, too. The net result is rough on the brake drums, warping them. Damage to the brake pistons also results from too sudden application of braking power."

Prevents Gas Freeze-Up

Keeping water out of the gas by adding gasoline anti-freeze compounds is effective enough, but this is often like locking the barn doors after Dobbin has made his getaway. The smart thing is to prevent water from getting into the gas tank. Here's how:

Replace that locking cap if it is old because water often will find a way into the tank if the car is driven in a heavy rain. Make sure that the gas tank is well filled at all times. The more internal exposed area, the more condensation there will be. Finally drain off the fuel filter bowl.

Picked Up Enroute

Gay colors are the order of the day as clearly evidenced by the fact that only 20 per cent of factory production represents black finish. Gasoline expands with heat so you actually get a little more fuel when you buy on a cold day, especially in the morning. Factory engineers for one of America's top cars are now working on a noiseless clock, this being the only unit of the latest job which offers noise. Any idea that American cars are standardized is quickly punctured by reference to the degree to which cylinder head nuts should be drawn down, the range for current cars being from 30 pounds-feet to 80.

Better Results Ahead

You may not be aware of it but the engine in your car may be in advance of its times. If you keep the car in good condition a year or two from now you may be able to purchase a new and higher compression head for it and make other minor changes that will have a major effect. These changes await more general distribution and sale of still higher octane fuels. Progress has been impeded by the circulation of misleading articles urging motorists not to use premium fuels. Unless these and still better fuels are generally used, no car engineer too far expects to make this product fully effective in terms of economy and performance.

Three To Remember

Having a valve job done is another way to save the brakes. A tight engine means better compression braking on downgrades.

The engine acts like a gyroscope, so don't coast when driving over ice or loose gravel. The car will be steadier in gear-conventional gear, that is.

The speed at which the clutch is engaged should be changed to match the load carried. Go easier when the car is light; engage more quickly when the car is loaded or headed uphill.

Care Pays Extra

One of the rewards for giving the car generous care and attention is the extra dividend that invariably accompanies a remedy. I saw this demonstrated recently when an owner took time to have the distributor cleaned and checked over. He was looking for a cure for skipping, and found it in cleaning all grease and dirt from the head, but for good measure found relief from hard starting in damp weather. While the head was being cleaned all wiring was removed and the insulation checked for cracks. To make the benefits more complete this effort to keep the car up to par resulted in a decided improvement in the car's radio. Poor connections in the distributor were causing interference.

What's Your Trouble?

Q. What can be done to eliminate excessive looseness in the steering system? I have been told that this may be due to a worn front wheel bearing. Is this possible? H. W. Jr.

A. Yes. Another thing to check is looseness of the drag link connections.

Q. Recently I have been noticing more and more noise in the rear axle of my car. Does this indicate trouble with the pinion, or would you say there is a bad bearing? Wm. L. H.

A. The first step is to check to see if the rear end has enough lubricant, and the right kind.

Q. Why would oil pressure be too high after a motor overhaul? F. K. H.

A. This might indicate slight clogging of one of the oil lines, assuming that whoever did the job wasn't too tidy. However, it would be well to check the spring of the oil pressure relief valve. They may have used a new and heavier spring.

Q. There's no heat coming from the hot water heater of my car, but I notice that its core is plenty warm. The engine doesn't seem to be running any cooler than usual, so I know the motor thermostat is working properly. E. S.

A. The chances are that the fan of the heater isn't running. It has no provision for oiling its bearing but I have often started such fans into action by applying a little penetrating oil to their shaft.

Q. What would cause noise in a fuel pump. I have driven fast up hill in second gear and find that the pump is delivering sufficient fuel. But the noise is quite noticeable. K. L. D.

A. Look for a scored rocker arm or an eccentric camshaft.

Q. Will piston ring expanders increase compression? H. H. L.

A. The general idea is to improve ring efficiency, but the answer to (Please Turn to Page 6) activated in June 1942 and after training in the United States went to England in 1944. It took part in the invasion of France and was the first American division to enter Belgium. In battles along the Seine the division inflicted 25,000 casualties and captured 12,000 prisoners of war.

The division took part in the counter-attack in December 1944 and helped French troops in the capture of Strasbourg. It was the first American division to reach the Rhine. The 79th completed its European work by occupying Czech, Czechoslovakia. It was then trained for Japanese warfare but the war ended before it was sent to the Pacific. During World War II its members won 5,463 decorations, Captain Sheely said.

Enroll Two Members

Two new members have been assigned to the unit, Captain Sheely reported, Pfc. Charles T. Coffelt, Gettysburg R. 4 and Pfc. Ray Sentz, New Oxford R. 2.

The third floor of the American Legion building has been remodeled under government contract as an armory for the two local Army Reserve units, the members of Company E learned when they met for their session. Two orderly rooms have been constructed, one for Company E and the other for the 2108th Replacement Depot. Two supply rooms have also been constructed for the two units that meet in the Legion building.

WOULD BOOST PER CAPITA TAX

Harriburg, Feb. 4 (AP)—Pennsylvania taxpayers would be tagged for another $5 in per capita school taxes under a proposal backed today by the Pennsylvania School Directors' association.

The association's annual convention passed a resolution here yesterday, urging that the present $5 per capita school tax be boosted to $10.

A spokesman said this would make millions of dollars more available locally in school revenues. Nearly all of the state's 2,532 school districts are now levying the per capita tax.

The association also recommended a substantial increase in state school subsidies. The present maximum subsidy base per teaching unit is $3,450 a year. The directors believe this must be lifted to at least $4,000 or over to meet rising school costs. Such a boost, it was estimated, would cost taxpayers some $27,500,000 a year more in school aid. Support of public schools already constitutes one of the biggest outlays in the state budget. The 1949 legislature appropriated $203,000,000 for this purpose alone.

The association named Dr. William B. Grove, of Mercersburg as its new president, and elected these vice presidents: Dr. Albert J. Strohecker, Reading, first vice president; Robert Carson, Greensburg, second vice president, and Robert H. Raynor, Moscow, Wayne county, third vice president.

Riding With Russell

Your question depends on how well the rings fit their grooves. If the grooves are worn, the expanders may cause more chance for oil leakage behind the rings.

Q. I had been having a lot of trouble with a noisy oil pump, but now that the gears have been replaced there is no improvement. What now? T. McB.

A. This seems to be the week for odd noises around the car. Regarding the oil pump the trouble is simply that replacing the gears was not enough by way of remedy. There also is wear on the pump's body which should also be replaced.

Mr. Russell will answer questions regarding the safe car and operation of your car. Just address him at 254 Fern street, West Hartford, 7, Connecticut, and enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for a personal reply. There is no charge.
